Improved Cell Nucleation Additive for Polystyrene Foam

Abstract

Low density polystyrene foam is produced using polytetraflouroethylene particles to induce cell nucleation. The product shows improved gauge, improved blow up, and improved product strength.